

COOKIE POLICY

Last updated: 01/09/2026

1. What are cookies?

Cookies are small text files stored on the user's device when visiting a website. They allow the website to remember information about the user's visit and improve its functionality and user experience.

2. What types of cookies do we use?

Necessary (technical) cookies

These cookies are necessary for the proper functioning of the website and do not require the user's consent.

They are used, for example, to:

- manage user sessions,
- ensure website security,
- store basic user settings.

Analytical cookies

These cookies are used to measure website traffic and analyse visitor behaviour in order to improve the quality and performance of the website.

These cookies are stored only after the user has given their consent.

Personalisation cookies

These cookies allow us to remember the user's preferences, such as the website language or regional settings.

Marketing and advertising cookies

These cookies are used to display relevant advertising and marketing content based on the user's behaviour on the Internet.

These cookies are stored only after the user's explicit consent has been given.

3. Legal basis for the use of cookies

The use of analytical, personalisation and marketing cookies is based on the user's explicit consent.

The user may withdraw their consent at any time.

4. Managing and configuring cookies

The user has the option to:

- accept all cookies,
- reject all non-essential cookies,
- individually configure the different categories of cookies.

The user may change their decision at any time via the “Cookie Settings” link available on the website.

5. Deleting cookies

The user can delete or block cookies through their Internet browser settings.

Disabling certain cookies may affect the proper functioning of certain parts of the website.

6. Updates to the Cookie Policy

This policy may be updated in the event of legislative, technical or operational changes.